Teachers get wet for charity

GENESIS Christian College students had the chance to get their own back on their teachers recently, while helping out a children’s charity. Year 10 business students came up with a novel way of raising funds for the Starlight Foundation – an amusement business which put the principal, head of secondary school and several teachers directly in the firing line.

Students paid for the chance to throw waterlogged sponges at the hapless teachers. Students quickly learned that more water on the sponge equalled a bigger splash. A total of $700 was raised for the Starlight Foundation.

GOOD SPORTS: Principal Brian Barker and Mrs Gemma Beard getting Sponge Smashed as a Middle school student watches.